Mom Corps Dallas Finds Company's Perfect Candidate

Dallas (July 7, 2011) – Cambridge Healthcare Properties, Dallas-based developer, owner and manager of U.S. healthcare facilities, recently enhanced its internal team by adding a vice president of accounting. The company partnered with Mom Corps Dallas, a leading placement firm connecting progressive Dallas businesses with experienced candidates, to fill the position.

Mom Corps Dallas candidate Michele Rougon joined Cambridge because of the corporate culture, a family-friendly environment with flexible working solutions. More and more of the U.S. workforce are looking for employers who value work-life balance and some flexibility in work schedule. According to a February 2011 global research report from Regus, global leader in flexible workplace solutions, 85 percent of U.S. companies now offer their staff some form of flexible working.

Not only do effective and flexible workplace practices improve the lives of employees, they enhance the business' competitive advantage in the 21st century, according to the Families and Work Institute, sponsor of the Alfred P. Sloan Award. Companies are finding that flexible working is bringing them significant benefits, including higher productivity and engagement, lower turnover, more innovation and stronger overall health leading to lower health insurance costs, which all lead to increased revenue and a more competitive organization.

With more than 21 years' experience in accounting covering all aspects in the accounting and finance field, Rougon turned to Mom Corps Dallas when strategically determining her new career move.

“I trusted Mom Corps Dallas because I was looking for a placement partner that would see me and my qualifications as an individual and not just some other candidate,” said Rougon. “They made the entire experience exceptional, took the time to listen to what I could bring to the table as well as what I was looking for in a new position. Mom Corps Dallas was there with me every step of Cambridge’s interviewing process.”

Cambridge Healthcare Properties agrees.

“Our company values our team members. If they are happy and fulfilled in all aspects of their lives then we can do the best for our clients,” Dennis Barnes, Cambridge Healthcare Properties’ chief operating officer. “Mom Corps Dallas is a valued partner in enhancing our business through our people, identifying exceptional candidates and saving us time in the process, so we can focus on our company vision and day-to-day business operations.”

Mom Corps Dallas couldn’t be more pleased with the result.

Mom Corps Dallas Co-owner and Principal Cindy Strand Yared adds, “Enhancing the quality of life of North Texas families which enriches our communities and provides progressive businesses opportunities to thrive is our mission. Employees are more productive when they are working for a company who cares about them and realizes the value of work/life balance. Cambridge walks the talk and our candidate, Michele, is one example of the talented professionals we can deliver.”
